

Take a Bite out of Stereotypes

When someone says “shark,” many think of a vicious beast lurking in the ocean, waiting to attack unsuspecting prey—or people.

But that isn’t an accurate picture of all sharks. In fact, there are more than 350 different kinds of sharks, with diverse qualities. The whale shark is the largest fish in the ocean—it can be longer than a school bus! But it eats mainly plankton and is harmless to humans. The dwarf lantern shark is so small you could easily hold it in one hand! The image of bloodthirsty sharks is a stereotype—a broad assumption about an entire group.

You might run into stereotypes about humans, too—due to skin color, culture, gender, or other things. Lumping a group of people together based on one part of their identity isn’t fair. Just as a shark doesn’t always spell danger, we can’t judge others based on stereotypes. If we dive in and look under the surface, we’ll see that each individual is unique.

Find virtues and ideas that help us appreciate diversity and avoid stereotypes.

INDIVIDUAL

COURAGE

UNDERSTANDING

OPEN-MINDED

FRIENDSHIP

EDUCATION

EMPATHY

JUSTICE

UNITY

FAIRNESS

TRUTH

UNIQUE

ACCEPTANCE

DIVERSITY

APPRECIATION

HARMONY

SHARKS HAVE NO BONES. OUR SKELETONS ARE MADE OF CARTILAGE, LIKE MOST OF YOUR NOSE.

MANY SHARKS CONSTANTLY LOSE AND REPLACE TEETH. SOME OF US LOSE 30,000 IN A LIFETIME!

SINCE OUR EYES ARE ON THE SIDES OF OUR HEADS, WE CAN NEARLY SEE IN A FULL CIRCLE.

A	J	U	S	T	I	C	E	K	K	W	U
Y	P	J	H	J	O	I	R	C	F	V	N
H	Y	P	Y	U	F	C	X	E	R	D	D
R	U	U	R	N	V	V	D	S	I	E	E
P	E	A	F	E	O	U	L	E	E	N	R
I	G	I	F	D	C	M	V	C	N	G	S
E	N	O	P	A	K	I	R	N	D	A	T
U	D	D	T	L	I	D	A	A	S	B	A
Q	J	I	I	T	T	R	U	T	H	N	N
I	O	V	J	V	N	M	N	P	I	D	D
N	D	E	D	N	I	M	N	E	P	O	I
U	J	R	E	P	S	D	M	C	S	H	N
X	N	S	E	G	G	P	U	C	I	S	G
B	K	I	N	S	A	M	R	A	M	V	J
B	L	T	T	T	P	T	I	F	L	B	P
V	U	Y	H	Y	K	E	S	E	Y	R	F
I	W	Y	A	Y	A	I	C	C	Q	H	K
I	O	Y	S	W	W	O	P	T	L	W	P