

GO, TEAM!

“It behoveth everyone to traverse this brief span of life with sincerity and fairness.” –Bahá’u’lláh

What would sports and games be like if nobody played fairly? Imagine what would happen if every player threw a fit after losing a game or mocked their opponents after a win.

Competition can be fun when everyone practices good sportsmanship. That includes integrity, fairness, and a positive attitude. It’s not always easy to keep your cool when you’re frustrated, but you can still respect others, even if you’re having a bad game. When you play by the rules and treat all players, coaches, and officials as you want to be treated, everybody wins.

Look at the volleyball game. List at least seven ways kids are showing respect and being good sports. Then list at least seven ways kids are being unfair or disrespectful.
