

SLEUTH FOR TRUTH

Did you know that you're a detective? Whether you're faced with a missing treasure or a story that sounds false, you can be a sleuth for truth. As you search for clues, be thorough and think carefully—especially when you're online.

When you wonder if a website or other resource can be trusted, investigate with questions. Who is sharing the material? Look for experts and well-known groups. Where did they get the information? Check for details about their sources. What is the purpose of the site? Determine if it offers clear facts or personal opinions. When was it published? Make sure it's up to date.

Sleuthing skills are awesome! You have the ability to explore and figure things out for yourself. When you examine the evidence, ask questions, and pray for guidance, you can uncover the truth.
