HOPEFUL HARMONIES

When you're making music with friends, it's important to listen carefully to each other. If one person drowns out the others, the song is unbalanced. But if we work together, we can create joyful melodies.

When the United States was established 250 years ago, leaders envisioned a triumphant chorus of equality and justice. Over the years, we've made progress and faced setbacks. With hope and resilience, we continue to strive toward those original goals.

In a message called A Common Endeavor, the Bahá'ís of the U.S. encourage our efforts to build unity. Humanity is a diverse global family. To sing in harmony, everyone needs fair opportunities to grow and thrive.

We can all play a part. Connect with your neighbors and strengthen friendships. Talk about hopes and concerns. Look for ways to be helpful. When all people are embraced with kindness and respect, we can raise our voices and move toward our dreams!
