

CONSULTATION IS KEY

Life is full of mysteries and adventures, but how do you choose which to explore?

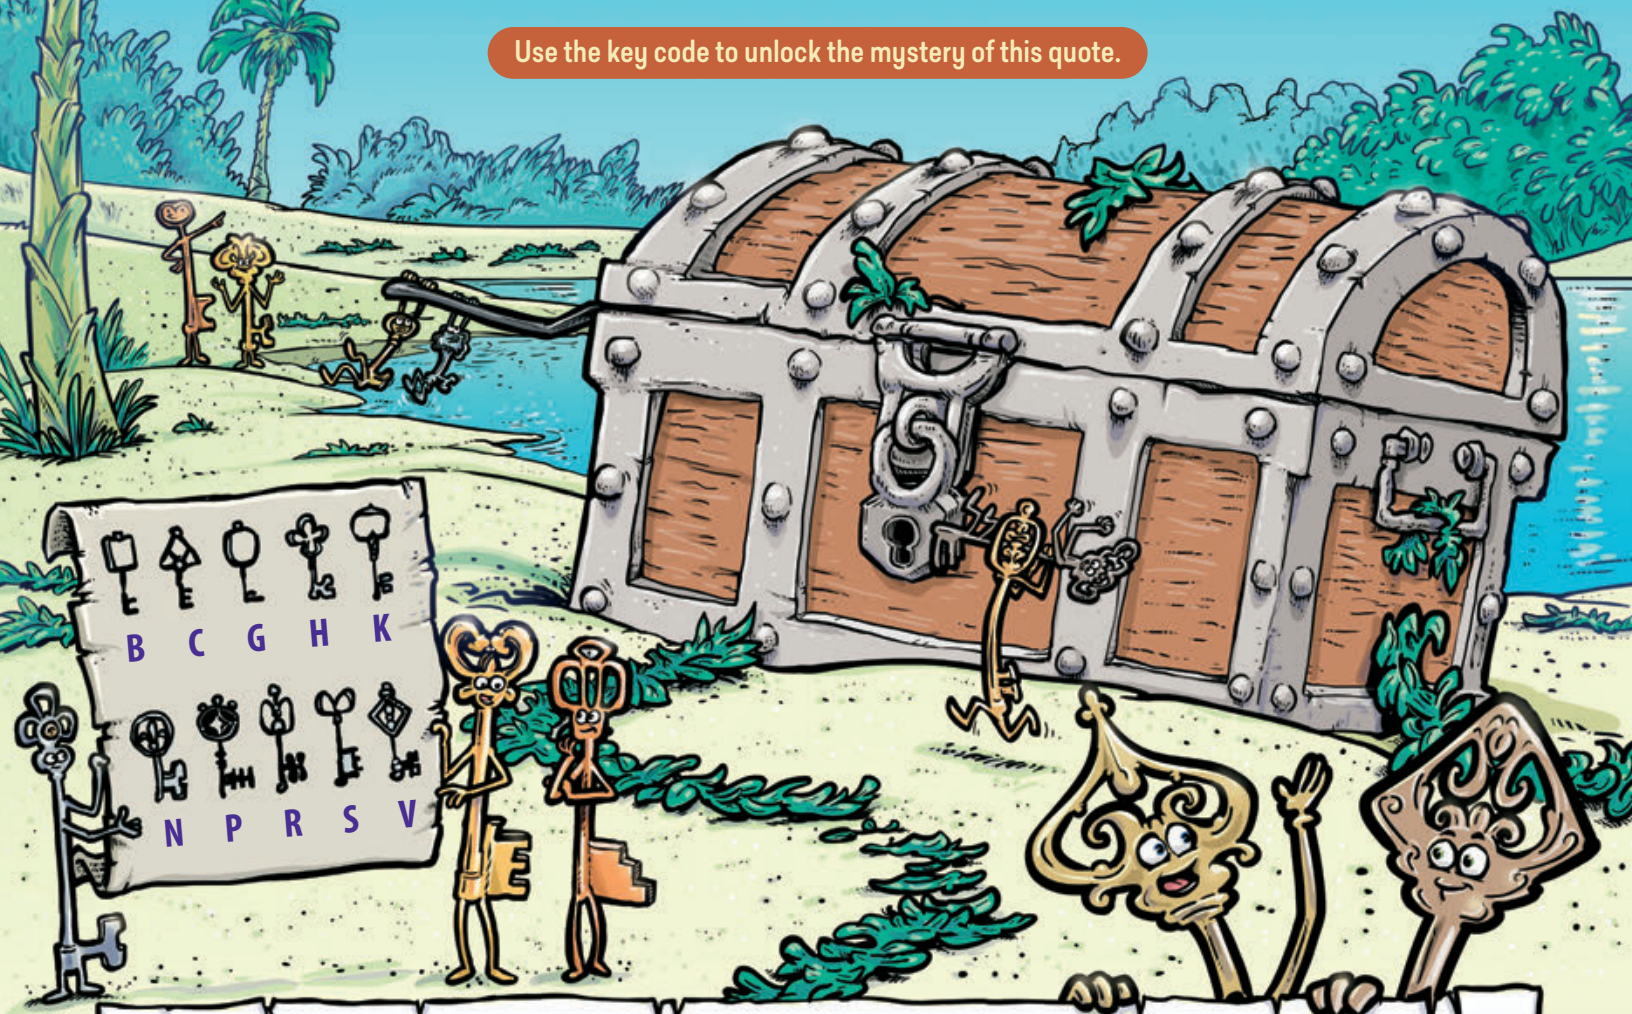

Just like you'd need help to carry a heavy chest, a big (or small) decision can get lighter when you talk with friends or family. Sharing different points of view helps you find treasures of truth.

Calm consultation is a key to all kinds of issues, such as resolving an argument or planning a project. It includes keeping your cool, listening, asking questions, and not being too attached to your own ideas. Caring about and respecting each other is one of the most important keys.

Speaking from the heart about things that matter can be tricky. With practice, you'll polish your skills. You may deepen your friendships too. Together, you can unlock secrets of consultation!
