

ZEKE INVESTIGATES

How do you know if something is right or wrong? The Bahá'í writings say we ought to think for ourselves, and not just imitate others. Are you ready to search for the truth? Look around the library. Find some books stacked together, with one letter on each spine. Unscramble the letters on five groups of books to make five words. Figure out where each word belongs in the blanks below.

1. "In order to find _____ we must give up our prejudices ..."
2. "An open receptive _____ is essential."
3. "The fact that we imagine ourselves to be _____ and everybody else _____ is the greatest of all obstacles in the path towards unity ..."
4. "When we are in earnest in our _____ for anything we look for it everywhere." Writings of 'Abdu'l-Bahá
